Comprehensive Company Overview | Influencer & Business Edition

1. Who We Are

Textergram LLC is a digital communications and technology business that helps influencers, creators, entrepreneurs, and organizations maintain direct relationships with their audiences through AI-assisted mobile text messaging. Its platform combines private group messaging, message refinement, multilingual support, contact organization, and reusable communication tools.

Textergram is not intended to replace social media. It provides a complementary, permission-based channel for reaching contacts without relying exclusively on the visibility of social media posts.

2. Our Core Mission

Our mission is to empower people and businesses to build stronger, more direct relationships through intelligent, accessible, privacy-conscious communication technology. Textergram seeks to make everyday communication clearer, more organized, and less dependent on third-party content-distribution algorithms.

- Audience independence: maintain direct communication with consenting contacts.
- Communication efficiency: organize groups, save messages, and reduce repetitive work.
- Accessible AI: improve wording, spelling, grammar, and multilingual communication.
- Respect for recipients: support individualized messaging and responsible contact practices.
- Economic opportunity: provide optional, rules-based affiliate earning opportunities.

3. The Problem We Solve

A creator can build thousands of followers without being able to reach all of them reliably through a social media feed. Businesses face similar challenges with announcements, promotions, and time-sensitive updates. Conventional group texts can also expose recipients to reply-all traffic and disorganized conversations. Textergram addresses these practical problems by helping users communicate directly and privately with organized contact groups.

4. How Textergram Works

Users organize their contacts into groups, prepare a message, use AI-assisted writing tools where helpful, and send individualized texts. Replies return to the sender rather than appearing as a shared group thread. The public website describes groups of up to 20 contacts per send and the ability to create multiple saved groups. SMS recipients do not need to install Textergram simply to receive a standard text.

Delivery depends on device, carrier, consent, and applicable messaging rules; Textergram does not guarantee that every message will reach its intended recipient.

5. Core Product Features

- Private group texting with individualized recipient replies.
- AI assistance for proofreading, rewriting, and improving messages.
- Translation and communication support across 40+ languages, as advertised.
- Saved contact groups and reusable message templates.
- Scheduled messaging and device automation, subject to supported functionality.
- Credit-based usage with introductory free credits and additional credit purchases.
- A privacy-conscious approach to contact handling and recipient visibility.

6. Benefits for Influencers

Influencers can use Textergram to keep consenting followers informed about new content, appearances, launches, events, and relevant offers. This makes an existing audience more reachable and supports ongoing relationships beyond a social media feed. The company particularly promotes its Audience Owner offering to influencers with 5,000 or more followers.

The value proposition is simple: social media helps people discover a creator; Textergram helps the creator stay connected with interested followers.

7. Complimentary Audience Ownership Tools

The website currently describes a Free Customer Pack featuring a digital E-card, capture page, customer portal, 10 introductory text credits, and a discount savings platform. It also advertises a separate Audience Owner offering for eligible influencers. Eligibility, available benefits, and credit amounts should be confirmed against the current terms before any promotional commitment.

8. Business and Community Applications

- Small businesses: customer updates, announcements, and promotions.
- Real estate and professional services: organized client communications.
- Entertainment and creators: supporter and fan updates.
- Community organizations and teams: event and membership notices.
- Educational and service organizations: appropriate notices to authorized recipients.

All use cases require appropriate consent and compliance with messaging, privacy, and consumer-protection rules.

9. Affiliate Marketing Opportunity

Textergram also operates an affiliate marketing channel. Eligible participants may promote qualifying products and earn direct commissions and applicable matching bonuses under the official compensation plan. Affiliate earnings depend on qualifying activity and program rules; they are not guaranteed. The affiliate opportunity is distinct from Textergram's technology product and from its passive contractual revenue-sharing arrangements.

10. Revenue Model

Textergram's core customer-facing commercial model is the sale of messaging credits and related product packages. Customers may begin with introductory access and purchase additional credits for continued use. The company also uses affiliate promotion as a customer-acquisition channel. Its sustainable growth depends on customer adoption, repeat use, delivery reliability, operating economics, and retention.

11. Published Progress and Market Position

At the time of review, Textergram.com advertised over 30,000 messages sent, over 3 million credits sold, 40+ languages supported, and scheduled messaging. These figures are company-published and have not been independently audited.

12. Leadership and Vision

Fiona Moody serves as CEO & President, and Stan Williams serves as COO & Vice President. Textergram presents a broader leadership group spanning technology, strategy, operations, finance, and other professional disciplines. The long-term goal is to develop a dependable, practical communications platform serving creators, businesses, and communities.

13. Our Beliefs

We believe relationships matter more than algorithmic visibility. We believe creators deserve practical tools for communicating with audiences they have worked to build. We believe AI should make messages clearer and communication more accessible. And we believe durable businesses are built by solving real customer problems.

14. Our Commitment Moving Forward

Textergram aims to improve its user experience, strengthen reliability, expand responsible adoption, and help creators and organizations communicate with greater confidence. We are building more than a way to send messages: we are developing tools to help people maintain direct connections and create lasting value through better communication.
